Greetings from Your Directors

Fred & Linda Fisher
Senior Directors

As many of you know, Linda and I, along with Randall and Janet Drake, recently got back from Alaska. While there, we had the opportunity to ride a Gold Wing. Doing so allowed us to complete our 50th state; something I am very proud of. I could fill this newsletter with details about this trip, but this is not the place as we have other things to talk about.

Reports tell me that a good time was had by all at the Chapter E fundraiser. I was out of town during this event, but my co-director Linda was able to attend and had a good time.

We have a multi-chapter event planned to attend a Colorado Spring Sky Sox Baseball Game on July 12th. I have contacted the Sky Sox and made our final reservations. We are all looking forward to this fun event.

We also have a couple of local chapter fundraisers coming up. Chapter J's Fundraiser is on Saturday, July 25th and Chapter I's picnic is Saturday, August 1st. Please take to time to support these events.

Coming in August is the District Convention in Montrose. You might be asked in the future to lend a helping hand at the convention. If you can help out, please do.

Late August brings Wing Ding in Huntsville. We have our very own Bob and Jan Wills, former Colorado and Region Couple of the Year that will be participating in the International Couple of the Year selection process. If you have an opportunity to go there and support them, I'm sure they would appreciate it.

With that, I'll close for this month. Looking forward to seeing you at the July 6th gathering, if not before.

Until Then, Ride Safe..... Always!

Lane Changes at Speed, Obstacle Avoidance, and Urgent Braking! How are these related?

Submitted by Stan Smetana

These riding maneuvers (and others) are related on many levels, and details would be mostly “review” for touring riders like you, but there is a far more complex system that’s intimately involved with all of our maneuvers that I would like you to think about this month. I would like us all to consider the physiology of the rider.

Sure we train our brains, and practice our bodies, but do we properly maintain and objectively evaluate our own biomechanics? I change my brakes when worn, but I’m still working with my “original equipment fingers” albeit, with a few skeletal modifications/replacements. Beyond the mental capacity, training, and practice to help us react as we ride, our bodies must fundamentally support these maneuvers and provide suitable forces so that we can enjoy the ride. What are the TCLOC inspections or the appropriate maintenance intervals for your rider’s body?

When was the last time you stretched your neck to maintain its range of motion? While I’m sure we’ve all craned our necks to see a sexy bike ride past, the head rotation and peripheral vision used for lane changes is significantly different than your head following your eyes. The lane-check head motion is more about your eyes following your head; a rotation of the neck with your eyes in a centered or even slightly lagging position. I find that this motion comes more easily to people that regularly wear glasses, but it’s worth practicing for all of us. Can you safely monitor your direction of travel while performing a solid head-check for a clear lane?

Do not underestimate the value of maintaining pliable and supportive “core” muscles. Your core builds the foundation on which your head and shoulders rely. I would expand thoughts on muscle maintenance to include your butt (glutes) and your hip flexors. An effective swerve will have your torso moving freely above the saddle without support from your heated/padded backrest allowing your center of gravity to move independently from the bike. Our butt and hip muscles play an important role in maintaining your saddle position in swerves and other potentially aggressive maneuvers. The GL1800 should be able to lean a bit over 40-degrees, how well will your core keep you stable and securely astride your bike?

And what of braking? Sure we can all stomp a bug, so rear/pedal braking abilities may be a forgone conclusion, but how comfortable are you applying force as you extend your ankle? I see some riders shift their foot forward to apply their rear pedal brake... You could be too late if you need to reposition your foot. The muscle used for foot braking on touring bikes is generally the soleus due to our Goldwing's knee-bent, seated riding position and not the bulky calf muscle (gastrocnemius). If you’re looking to stretch or build, look for seated calf exercises like bouncing your grandbabies on your knee, not jumping jacks.

And your right-hand grip? How much controlled pressure can you readily apply to your front brakes? (I’ll bring a grip dynamometer to the gathering so we can check). Aside from applying your most important brake, enhancing your grip strength has some interesting benefits including lowering your blood pressure (American Heart Association PDF), seems like a win-win.

This article has gone long. I hope that you’ve been able to make it through and come away with something of value. If nothing more, all this could shake loose your thoughts on formalized training, riding practice, or maybe a thought or two on functional exercise. You’ll only know what you know, and having more tools in your safety toolbox is always a good thing. I can hope that this article has helped to remind you that we, mind AND body, form a principle part of a highly complex system that works to keep us safe and happy. What is your body’s TCLOC?

Just a Personal Touch!Mike HottingerMembership Enhancement Coordinator

June is over, the Region F Rally is in the books and the District Rally is on the way. Can you believe the year is half over? Rhonda and I have enjoyed some good miles on the bike but with all that has been going on we have not ridden as much as we have wanted. It finally warmed up and we have been enjoying the updates people have been posting on Facebook of their adventures. Some extensive and others just an update of what happened today.

Facebook! This is what is on my mind. Many of us are on Facebook and sometimes I feel that we are missing a little of that personal touch a phone call does for someone or a note that is handwritten. It does not have to be much, just a little "thinking about you" note or call. Yes, we hear it all the time, I'm busy, time just flew by, did not think about it, but we can sure be judgmental if we feel that someone did not take the time to reach out to us, can't we? What has caused this? I feel the GWRRA crowd is a very caring bunch of people but even we can have our moments. I just want to remind everyone that we are ambassadors of our chapter and by extension, our district, region and GWRRA internationally. So take the time and touch someone's life and maybe make a difference today, it could be as simple as a little ride to the neighborhood Dairy Queen, because who doesn't need a little ice cream?

Share the Passion, Hug Someone.

Thank You!Mike & Rhonda HottingerJust GREAT People!!!*

Rhonda and I would like to thank everyone at Chapter L for being there for us, with us, and making us a big part of this chapter. You all know that I was let go from my job in Commerce City in early May and had struggled to gain employment in the Denver area. In June, I was courted buy a large John Deere Dealer in Ohio and after being offered a position and contemplating it a few days, Rhonda and I chose to make the move to Ohio. It will be a big change for us and I am working at the new job now as I write this and Rhonda is back living with my parents until we are able to get a house in the Columbus area. I am the Parts Department Manager at JD Equipment in London, Ohio. Chapter L will always be our home as who else would care to give Rhonda and me the wedding we received. We are forever grateful for that because a wedding in Las Vegas would not have been as meaningful. There are so many things to be thankful for so I will not list them for fear of missing something or someone so "We wish to just say THANK YOU for our time here." I am sorry that I am not in Colorado any longer to take the Chapter L Individual of the Year to District and bring the District Individual of the Year back to Chapter L because we all know I would own that! LOL!!!

Thank you again, and we will keep everyone updated when I find an Ohio address. Our phone numbers are still: Mike (303) 524-5656 and Rhonda (720) 737-9726

Trip Planning!

Becky Ackerman
Ride Coordinator

July 4th is right around the corner and before you know it, we'll be headed to Montrose for the District Convention. The summer seems to be flying by. The weather hasn't exactly cooperated a lot yet for motorcycle rides but hopefully you're all taking advantage of the windows between storms. And while you're sitting at home watching the rain, there's no better time than to make plans for an outing another day.

With Mike's retirement starting on July 1, we've been busy making plans for a month long bike trip to Wing Ding and then on to visit family and friends in the Midwest. We enjoy making plans for vacations, no matter if it's over a long weekend, a week or even two. And we've had quite a lot of experience over the years learning what to do or not do on vacation.

We all work hard to earn the time off work for vacations so it's imperative we make the most of them. Sometimes just jumping on your bike with a change of clothes in the trunk works just fine, but not always. We've learned half the fun is in the planning. And with a little research you'd be amazed at what you would have missed otherwise.

On that note, we would like to invite you to join us at the District Convention in Montrose on Friday, August 14th from 1:30-3:00 for a seminar on "How to Plan a Motorcycle Trip." Be aware the time and day could possibly change but for now that's when we're scheduled. We hope to see your smiling faces as we prepare you for the best vacation of your life.

Story Teller Extraordinaire

Don't worry; I'm not going all religious on you! What I am going to do is tell you a pretty cool story that may or may not be totally accurate in every detail but, in general, was a real hoot. The gist of the story begins with Janet and me hosting the June Mystery Dinner Ride as we do each year. Since the White Fence Farm was sold in October 2014, we were looking for a unique place that we (and hopefully many of our Chapter L members) had never experienced prior to this dinner ride!

The sweet part of this story began when I started calling the folks on Tuesday, June 16, who had signed up for this event at the June meeting. Mike and Rhonda Hottinger were on the list but I was sure they had taken off for London, Ohio for Mike's new job. I felt obligated to dial Mike's number and, much to my amazement, he answered!!! It turned out that both Mike and Rhonda had driven to Ohio to look for housing and stop by his new place of employment and were on their way back to Colorado. I was pleasantly surprised when Mike said they would make time to attend the Mystery Dinner Ride, despite all that was going on in their lives.

The dinner destination was the Arvada Villa Italian Restaurant (Villa), a baseball throw south of the intersection of Ralston Road and Independence Street in Arvada. Jim is the 6'6" owner of the Villa and has been so for the last 48 years (the restaurant has been in this location for 55 years). Randy Ketelsen, the owner of Ketelsen Campers in Wheat Ridge and a very frequent visitor to the Villa, had recommended this restaurant to Janet and me during a visit we had with him last March.

Since we had been inundated with rain for much of the last 6 weeks, I provided everyone with the name and location of the Villa beforehand. The Chapter L members were at the restaurant when I arrived at 6:10 p.m. Regrettably, Janet had to bail at the last minute to help her brother with his 2000 Harley Sportster that was broken down at the intersection of Sheridan and I-76. Why we had planned on driving to the restaurant in separate cars was, heaven forbid, divine intervention!

Jim took an interest in our group and asked why everyone at our table had $1 bills lying in front of them. Since the Chip Bag was AWOL for this dinner, I had planned a special drawing so someone in the group could at least win enough money to pay for a dinner or two. Jim liked that idea and, after checking with me privately, announced to the 150+ diners in the restaurant that for risking a lousy $1 bill, someone could win a ton of money by participating in Chapter L's Mystery Dinner Ride cash drawing. For some unknown reason, I had brought about 200 drawing tickets to the restaurant with me. Jim took charge and started selling these tickets like popcorn to all his loyal customers.

As this was taking place, I commented that if there really was a God, Mike and Rhonda would win this rapidly growing jackpot (did I mention that their Subaru had blown an engine on the way back from Ohio!?!). Once all the money was collected I asked Kim, our very efficient waitress, to draw a ticket from the bucket I had brought with me from home for this exact purpose. I am betting that some of you can predict the outcome of this very cool story. I will always remember Rhonda taking the slightly less than $200 jackpot and tucking it in a very discreet location between her chin and waist. Mike and Rhonda's Last Supper with Chapter L was a memorable one! This money could not have gone to more deserving people!!! Finally, even though I said I wasn't going to go all religious on you, I am tempted to say that there really is a God!

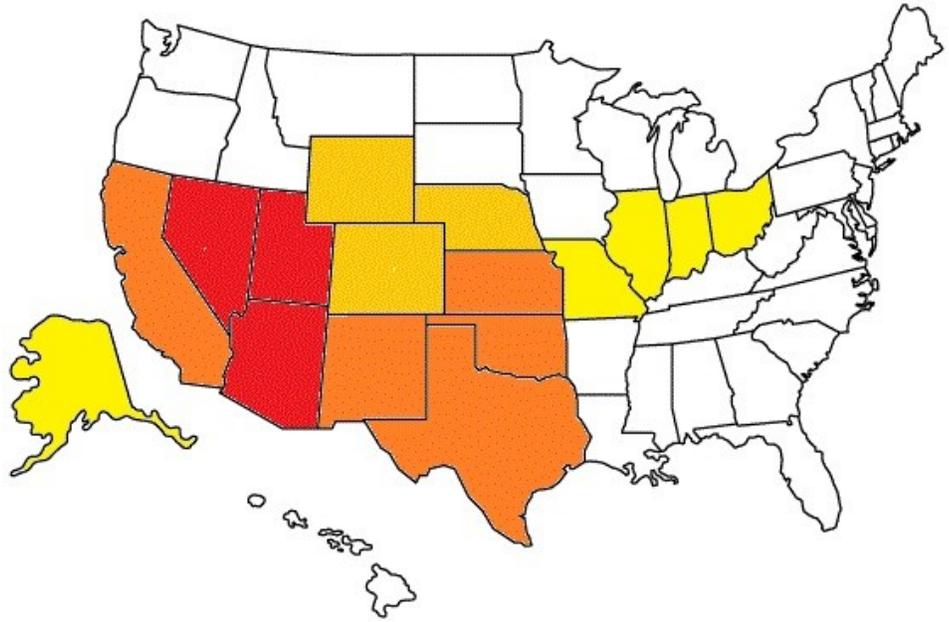

Where has Chapter L Ridden in 2015??

We made more States in June! Thanks to Fishers & Drakes for Alaska! Mike Hottinger captured several on his move to Ohio! Good Luck Mike & Rhonda! Please remember, when you are on your motorcycle or anyone else's motorcycle in 2015, be sure to report your travels to Fred and Randall.
