2018 Couple of the Year

Randall & Janet Drake

Directors' Greeting By Steve & Tami Bender, Directors

Well, we have been able to get a little riding in before the snow storm again. Things are starting to pick up with the Chapters and District.

There was the All-Chapter Bowling on March 18 and, by the pictures, everyone had a good time. The switch to Daylight Saving Time sure makes it nice to have daylight when I get off work. We had a great dinner hosted by Randall & Janet Drake on March 21st at The Olive Garden, once again great food and even greater company. Some rode and some drove to the Wyoming B birthday breakfast and some went to training on March 24th. I know in Wyoming, we had good food and good company. (We sure seem to eat a lot!)

Happy Easter and April Fool's Day on April 1st. Our meeting will be on April 2nd. Chapter A is hosting an Open House at Peak Honda on Saturday, April 7th. April 28th there will be an ARC course.

The Zermatt Rally is coming up May 25th-27th; make your reservations. Wing Ding is August 28th – September 1st; we need members to go and cheer on Bryan & Emma Lape. The Colorado Rally in Gunnison, CO will be September 13th – 15th.

Get your taxes done by April 17th, and see ya on Monday, April 2nd.

Red Rocks Report – April 2018

Assistant Director's Comments By Chuck Bellmyer, Assistant Director

Hello, Chapter L!

A while back, I mentioned in one of our meetings that Cottonwood Pass was going to be paved. Well, that project is well under way, and should be done sometime this summer.

According to an article by the Crested Butte News, the pass will be paved from the summit, west to the Taylor Reservoir Dam, a distance of about 14 miles. Their main concern is to improve safety over the pass. So far, they have reconfigured the switchbacks, laid back banks allowing for better drainage, and are rocking walls.

They have actually shortened the whole distance by about 1.5 miles. The road will be 24 feet across, allowing for two 11-foot-wide lanes with one foot of shoulder on each side.

The pass was closed all of last summer to allow the construction to continue, uninterrupted. So, if the winter up there was marginally mild, the pass may open sooner.

Myself, I'm looking forward to traveling the pass this fall. Maybe make a weekend ride out of it!

See you all at the meeting!

Do You Remember?

By Becky Ackerman, Ride Coordinator

A couple months ago, I asked how well you knew your fellow Chapter L members. Then at our February meeting, we went around the room and had everyone share what they enjoy doing in their spare time. Do you remember?

I'd like you to go down the list and see how many you can match up correctly. Some people shared the same interests, however the way they are listed provides one answer for each person. A prize will be awarded to the individual/individuals with the most correct answers.

You can email them to me at bikerbla@msn.com, and I will announce the winner at our next meeting on April 2nd.

The Hanging of Black Jack Ketchum By Mike Ackerman, Social and Membership Enhancement Coordinator

The end of the 19th and the beginning of the 20th Centuries were anything but peaceful in the Wild West. There were many colorful characters that helped to make the Wild West famous. One of those was Thomas ‘Black Jack’ Ketchum. Following is his story.

The hanging of Black Jack Ketchum didn’t go as planned

Nov 23, 2016 Goran Blazeski

The Wild West was not by any means a peaceful era. It was full of notorious gunslingers and outlaws who wouldn’t think twice before placing a bullet in someone’s head for even the slightest provocation.

There are countless stories and unsolved mysteries of the Wild West era, and Hollywood sure did spice them up for its movies. Romanticized and glorified by movie studios, the many outlaws and lawmen of this particular era became an integral part of pop culture and their stories continue to captivate audiences.

Nowadays there are many places throughout the United States where one can still experience the legendary mystique of the era, but only a few of them can match the Wild West legends of New Mexico, where such men as Elfago Baca, Buckshot Roberts, Pat Garrett, Billy the Kid, Charlie Bowdre, and “Black Jack” Ketchum left their marks.

An unforgettable story comes from the town of Clayton, New Mexico, which is the site of perhaps the clumsiest hanging in the history of the Wild West, that of a man known as “Black Jack” Ketchum.

Black Jack Ketchum

It was April 26, 1901, when train robber Thomas Edward Ketchum, later known as Black Jack, was hanged in the town of Clayton. Ever since that fateful day, the sad, twisted tale of one of the last outlaws of the Wild West has captured the imagination of historians and Wild West enthusiasts alike.

The officials in Clayton were not that experienced with the practice of hanging criminals: Ketchum was the first one to be sentenced to death by hanging. Their inexperience would lead to poor Black Jack Ketchum not dying in the usual manner, from breakage of the neck vertebrae, but from decapitation because the rope used for his execution was too long and as rigid as wire.

Thomas Edward Ketchum experienced a difficult childhood. He lost both his parents while still young and had to work as a cowboy together with his brother on various ranches across Texas and New Mexico. However, he put an end to his cowboy career in 1892 when he chose a life of crime.

Working as a cowboy had its advantages and when Ketchum entered the world of crime he already knew the territory of Texas and New Mexico. Together with his brother Sam and several more outlaws, they formed a gang and their luck smiled when they robbed a train in Nutt, New Mexico. The gang made off with $20,000.

Ketchum's first more serious crime occurred in 1895, when he killed John N. "Jap" Powers in Tom Green County, Texas. After the murder, Ketchum and his gang fled to New Mexico, where they committed several more robberies before most of the members, including Ketchum's brother, were either arrested or killed.

August 16, 1899, was a date of great importance for Ketchum as it was on that day that he made one final and unsuccessful attempt to rob a train. Sadly for him, the conductor recognized him and immediately shot him in the right elbow. It didn't take long before the authorities arrived and arrested the notorious train robber. Soon he was taken to the town of Clayton where he was put on trial, found guilty, and sentenced to death by hanging.

Authorities delayed the hanging on several occasions, but a final decision had to be made after people started spreading rumors that some of Ketchum's old friends might try to free him. The hanging was scheduled for April 26, 1901.

When the day came, the hanging was the biggest attraction in the entire area, with many people coming from far away to see the execution themselves. Ketchum was soon to become the first person hanged for train robbery in New Mexico. However, it did not proceed as smoothly as planned.

The night before the hanging was scheduled, an official tested the rope with a 200-pound sandbag, but he forgot to remove it and its weight made the rope as rigid as wire. This caused an immediate decapitation, and it is said that Black Jack's headless body landed on its feet and remained upright for some time.

Prior to burial, the townsfolk sewed his head onto his body and buried him at Clayton's Boothill.

The Obvious is Sometimes Overlooked – As in Parking Lots

By Ralph Spencer, Motorist Awareness Coordinator

I have often heard that a large majority of automobile accidents occur within three miles of your home. I don't have any statistics on this alleged truism, but I would not doubt its veracity for a second.

A second often heard warning is that many accidents happen in parking lots, of all places. I am betting that many of you can attest to this belief simply because we have all been there and witnessed close calls if not personal fender benders. I am thinking that motorcycles as well as automobiles have been victims of both types of accidents noted above.

The March 2018 edition of Wing World had a short story about parking lots provided by GWRRA's Cliff & Char Simpson, Motorist Awareness Program Assistant Directors, that I would like to reproduce for the benefit of all my readers.

"One of my pet peeves is people who drive fast in parking lots. So, I drive very slowly. I was recently maneuvering my one-ton dually 'monster truck' through our local Costco parking lot. It was noonish and I was driving directly into the sun. There were many Saturday shoppers and parking spots were scarce. My attention was divided between looking for a suitable space and dodging other vehicles and pedestrians. And I was in a hurry! In my peripheral vision, I saw movement on my right. I was so startled that I slammed on the brakes. As I focused on the movement, I clearly saw a woman in the shadow of a tree. She pushed her baby stroller into the path of my truck - with her attention on her cell phone! Her husband followed - with his attention focused on his phone! To my amazement, they crossed in front of my truck and didn't even look up! The Motorist Awareness Program is constantly enjoining the motoring public to 'look out for motorcycles on our highways.' Sometimes we mention bicycles or pedestrians. Let's remember that parking lots are some of the most dangerous place to drive/ride - or walk!"

Many thanks to Cliff and Char for this story. I hope it will instill in all of us the need for caution in parking lots and, by the way, especially when you are driving/riding within three miles of your home.

Until next time, please Share the Road and the Parking Lots - Safely!!!

March 21 Dinner

By Donald Redline, Photographer

It was the night of March 21st (a Wednesday night). Fourteen hungry friends gathered at The Olive Garden in Lakewood.

Some of us had wine, some of us had water, and someone had a beer. Then, there was the awesome salad that the Olive Garden always serves followed by some of the best Italian food around.

Some of the couples shared a dish with their significant other. I had my own dish which works great for me, cause then I can save half for lunch also. We all shared good times, stories of past adventures and some upcoming plans.

If you weren't there, you missed one

2018 Mine Tour Ride

June 7-10, 2018

The 2018 Mine Tour Ride, leaving Colorado June 7, will be to the Black Thunder Coal Mine near Wright, Wyoming. This surface coal mine is the largest open pit mine in the United States, producing over 100 million tons of coal per year, about 6% of all coal produced in the country.

We did this trip and mine tour nearly 15 years ago with a GWRRRA group and had a great ride and informative site visit, a chance to get up close to very large equipment and see how a big coal surface mine operates and reclaims the land.

In addition to the mine tour, we will ride to Devil's Tower, Spearfish, Sturgis, and Hill City, SD, where we will attend the Circle B Chuckwagon Dinner and Show.
