Benders' Brief

Steve & Tami Bender, Directors

Happy March, everyone! Spring is in the air, kind of.

The one thing of many things I love about Colorado is, even when it is cold outside and the sun is shining, it makes it feel warmer. I love the sunshine.

Some members are traveling, some have traveled, and some have taken classes. Always something to do if you look for it.

Our fundraiser is coming together, thanks to the Spencers and the Ackermans. We could always use more help, but we are really looking forward to Saturday, October 12th.

When the weather warms up, we will start meeting and possibly riding on the odd Sundays.

There is a CPR/1st Aid class coming up March 16 at Johnson's Corner after Chapter G's meeting. And Wyoming's Birthday Party is March 23.

The flyer is out for the 4 Corners Rally, and we will have registration forms at our meeting Monday, March 4th. Hope to see ya there.

The History of “Aprons”

By Mike Ackerman, Social and Membership Enhancement Coordinator

I don't think most kids today know what an apron is. The principle use of Mom's or Grandma's apron was to protect the dress underneath because she only had a few. It was also because it was easier to wash aprons than dresses and aprons used less material. But along with that, it served as a potholder for removing hot pans from the oven.

It was wonderful for drying children's tears, and on occasion was even used for cleaning out dirty ears.

From the chicken coop, the apron was used for carrying eggs, fussy chicks, and sometimes half-hatched eggs to be finished in the warming oven.

When company came, those aprons were ideal hiding places for shy kids.

And when the weather was cold, she wrapped it around her arms.

Those big old aprons wiped many a perspiring brow, bent over the hot wood stove.

Chips and kindling wood were brought into the kitchen in that apron.

From the garden, it carried all sorts of vegetables. After the peas had been shelled, it carried out the hulls.

In the fall, the apron was used to bring in apples that had fallen from the trees.

When unexpected company drove up the road, it was surprising how much furniture that old apron could dust in a matter of seconds.

When dinner was ready, she walked out onto the porch, waved her apron, and the men folk knew it was time to come in from the fields to dinner.

It will be a long time before someone invents something that will replace that “old-time apron” that served so many purposes.

REMEMBER:

Moms and Grandmas used to set hot baked apple pies on the window sill to cool. Her granddaughters set theirs on the window sill to thaw. They would go crazy now trying to figure out how many germs were on that apron.

I don't think I ever caught anything from an apron - but love.

Distracted Driving – A Killer Topic for Both Riders and Drivers by Ralph K. Spencer, Treasurer/Motorist Awareness Coordinator

A Motorist Awareness article by John Cunningham, California District Motorist Awareness Coordinator, in the February 2019 Wing World Magazine (page 66, top of page) discussed the killer (my word, not John's) topic noted above - Distracted Driving.

John's first sentence said it all, "Distracted drivers are a challenge we face every day." This statement applies to both riders and drivers.

We see these people every time we are on the road, be it on our motorcycles or our automobiles. They are everywhere! In fact, some of them may be us!!!

John's article got me thinking about this topic, so I went to the Internet to see if there was such a thing as a Top Ten List of killer driving distractions. And yes, to no one's surprise, I found a plethora of Top Ten Lists on this killer topic. I have included 10 categories of distracted driving that I have culled from several Internet articles.

The most alarming statistic was that one in ten people killed in car accidents (over 6,500 people!) were in crashes where at least one of the drivers was distracted.

Please take a look at the following 10 categories to see if you are surprised OR if you yourself might be guilty of one or more of these distractions:

- 1) 62% were generally distracted, inattentive, or lost in thought, e.g., daydreaming;
- 2) 12% - related to cell phone usage, such as talking, listening, texting, or dialing;

- 3) 7% - due to outside person, object, or event, e.g. rubbernecking;
- 4) 5% - related to Other Occupants, such as talking or looking at others in the car;
- 5) 2% - using or reaching for device or object, e.g., radar detector, CDs, ear buds;
- 6) 2% - eating or drinking;
- 7) 2% - adjusting audio or climate controls;
- 8) 1% - adjusting vehicle devices/controls, e.g., mirrors, windows, door locks;
- 9) 1% - a moving object in the vehicle, e.g., pets, insects, or cargo;
- 10) 1% - smoking related, such as smoking, lighting up, in smoking tray.

How many of these folks guilty of one or more of the killer distractions above are thinking about watching out for motorcycles? Damn few, if any, in my humble opinion.

I hope this Top Ten List will make all my readers extra careful in the upcoming riding season. Not only must we strive to assure that we do not fall into any of these categories, we must do our very best to constantly focus on our surroundings in an attempt to avoid the irresponsible cage drivers that surround us on the highways and byways.

Good luck and, until next time, please continue to Share the Road - Safely!!!

Our Fourth Alaska Adventure – Summer 2018 (Part 4) Start Heading home By Peter Keppler

It's the end of July and time to start our trek home. We left Homer and traveled north on the Kenai Peninsula back through Soldotna and then onto AK-9 south to Seward where we stayed just north of town in the Stoney Creek RV Park. Seward is the northern end point for the Alaska cruise ships and has a lot of tourist shops and the Alaska Sea Life Center, a really nice aquarium with local marine life. After visiting the harbor area, we rode to Seavey's Iditarod Champion Kennel for a dog sled ride with the "toughest dogs in the world." A team of 14 dogs pulled us around in a modified sled (similar to a golf cart) on a mile-long track in the woods. Mitch Seavey or his son have won the race seven times in the last 15 years and hold the record in the Iditarod Race, doing 1,000 miles in just under 11 days.

Can I take him home?

From Seward, we headed north again on the Seward Highway to Anchorage and Palmer. We stopped in Aleyeska, a ski resort south of Anchorage that is similar to Keystone, for lunch and had a great hamburger and homemade chips at Chair 5 Restaurant.

We stopped at Walmart in Anchorage for provisions and on to Mountain View RV Park in Palmer for one night.

Glennallen and the Ranch House Lodge and RV Park was our next stop. On the Glenn Highway, we stopped for lunch at the Grand

View Cafe and RV Campground, a place we had camped on our first trip to Alaska in 2006, known for great homemade pie. We had a nice visit with the owner, who also rides, and showed her our bikes.

From the Glenn Highway you get a good view of the Matanuska Glacier which extends 27 miles into the Chugach Mountains and is four miles wide at its terminus near the highway.

After spending the night at the Ranch House RV Resort and having their homemade chili for supper, we traveled south on AK-4 120 miles to Valdez and the Bear Paw RV Park which is right in the middle of town. The last 20 miles into Valdez after crossing Thompson Pass is really spectacular, with snow covered peaks on both sides, waterfalls, and the Worthington Glacier which you can walk to (this is known as the Switzerland of America).

Valdez is the southern terminus of the Trans-Alaska Pipeline where the oil from the North Slope is loaded onto huge oil tankers and shipped to refineries on the West Coast.

Unfortunately, it rained every day we were in Valdez, but it didn't stop us from taking the cruise into Prince Williams Sound to Meares Glacier. This was definitely a high-lite of our Alaska adventure, getting within 100 yards of a huge glacier to watch the glacier calve and seeing dolphins, whales, seals, eagles, and lots of other wildlife.

From Valdez, we headed north on AK-4 through Glennallen and onto the Tok Cutoff back to the Tok RV Village and Fast Eddy's for dinner.

We had planned to ride to Chicken which is 80 miles northeast of Tok on the Taylor Highway, but the weather and road conditions didn't cooperate. We had traveled on the Top of the World Highway and visited Chicken on a previous Alaska ride, so it wasn't a great disappointment that we weren't able to make it to Chicken this time.

Chicken Restrooms

After a rainy day in Tok, we are back on the Alaska Highway heading southeast to Whitehorse, YK and the Hi-Country RV Park, a nice campground where we had stayed in our camping trailer on our previous trip. We did get the bikes out and rode a stretch of the Old Alaska Highway and part of the Klondike Highway which goes north to Carmacks and Dawson City, before it started raining again. Another trip to Walmart and Shop-n-Save (i.e. King Soopers) for provisions before heading down to Skagway.

Skagway, 110 miles south of Whitehorse, is a major stop for the cruise lines and a real tourist trap, with many jewelry stores, high-end clothing shops, art shops, and all kinds of souvenirs. Skagway was the jumping off point for the Klondike Gold Rush in the late 1800s and has several museums and a national historic park commemorating the gold rush. There was only one cruise ship in town while we were there, so the crowds weren't too bad. We picked up a couple more gifts and had a lite dinner at the Skagway Brewing Company before going back to camp.

From Skagway it was back north to the Alaska Highway and then southeast to Watson Lake and the Baby Nugget Campground, same place we stayed on the way up. After stocking up again on groceries and gas, we head south into British Columbia and the Cassiar Highway.

Next month – traveling through BC and US northwest with forest fires and heavy smoke.
